

April car production down, but output for home market rises

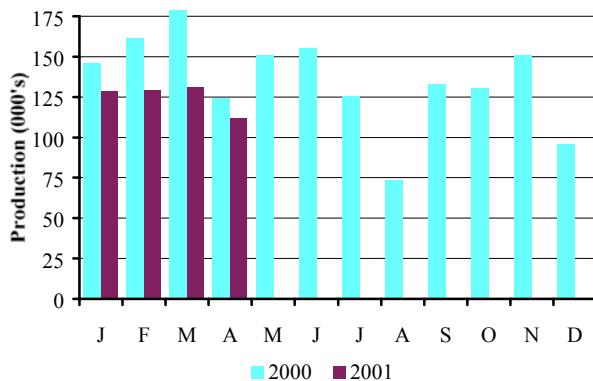

Production figures released today by the Office for National Statistics show that:

- ▲ Total car production in April 2001 fell by 10.3 per cent
- Car production for home market rose by 16.9 per cent

Monthly Car Production 2000-2001

- Provisional ONS data reports total car production down 10.3 per cent in April to 111,149 units.
- Production for the home market rose by 16.9 per cent to 44,369 units. Output for export fell by 22.2 per cent to 66,780 units.

Commenting on the latest figures SMMT chief executive Christopher Macgowan said, 'Although total car production was down last month, the increase in output for the home market is encouraging news. Strong orders for new UK produced cars and expansion into key foreign markets should ensure that this is matched by long term gains in export output too, providing economic conditions improve.'

On production forecast for the year he added, 'SMMT predicts that 1.55 million new cars will be made in the UK in 2001 which will be slightly down on last year but just above the average of 1.54 million for the last ten years. While the downward trend may continue in the short term, by the second half of this year output should begin to rise again.'

Commercial vehicle production

- Overall CV production down 13.2 per cent in April 2001
- April home market CV production up by 16.7 per cent
- CV production up 8.5 per cent for six months to April 2001

- April CV production at 14, 642 units dropped 13.2 per cent on April last year.
- CV production for the six months ending April 2001 was up 8.5 per cent on the previous six months, but 7.8 percent down on the corresponding period last year
- CV production for the home market rose 16.7 per cent in April 2001 compared with April last year.

'Demand for trucks remains healthy and we believe this will prove a good year for commercial vehicle production in the UK. At both ends of the CV weight range, production plans for the home and export markets are very encouraging. Factories are gearing up for increased van and truck production. The totals should hit some 100,000 units a year when they are at full capacity,' said Christopher Macgowan, chief executive of the SMMT.
